NEW YORK (AP) — No matter what color you ordinarily prefer, today is the traditional view of the parade from the cathedral steps.

St. Patrick has his day.

Just marching up green-striped Fifth Avenue will be 120,000 Irish-Americans. Add about a million spectators and you've got the crowd picture between 44th and 88th streets.

Partly cloudy skies were forecast as the umbrella over the vast array of bands featuring the skirl of bagpipes and fife and drum corps, the 69 battalions of marchers with their banners, with mounted police in the vanguard, and all watched over by a special police detail of 3,000—mostly Irishmen.

The procession, led by Grand Marshal James A. Farley, steps off at high noon and will last five hours.

Among those scheduled to be in the reviewing stand were Thomas J. Kiernan, Irish ambassador to the United States, Mayor Robert F. Wagner, and Governors Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey and John M. Dempsey of Connecticut.

Pressure on U. S. Seen at Geneva Talks

Several Nations
Want America to Quit Testing Plans

GENEVA (AP) — The United States appeared almost certain today to come under heavy pressure from several nonnuclear nations in the disarmament conference to suspend its plans for a series of nuclear weapons tests in the atmosphere starting next month.

Brazil has taken the lead among the eight-nation middle bloc of the conference in arguing that, even without an international inspection system, atmospheric tests can be stopped now because they are detectable over great distances.

Kennedy's Plan

At the heart of the developing struggle is President Kennedy's announced plan to go ahead with atmospheric tests in late April unless Russia signs a test-ban treaty providing for international inspection.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko told U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk privately last Sunday that the Soviet government would not accept international inspection for a test ban.

Soviet Ambassador Semyon K. Tsarapkin announced the position at a news conference Friday. He contended national inspection systems were sufficient to police a prohibition on testing.

U.S. officials regarded the Soviet declarations as a public rejection of Kennedy's terms. But they said they would not accept it as Moscow's last word on the issue. The President's offer remains open should the Soviets change their policy.

Rioting Grows In Guatemala

Opposition Mounts
As Army Supports
President Ydigoras

GUATEMALA (AP) — The army held this riot-torn Central American capital under virtual martial law today as opposition mounted to President Miguel Ydigoras' conservative regime. Army troops chased two guerrilla bands in the hills.

The army seized control of the city on Ydigoras' orders following four days of street fighting and other violence that left 20 persons dead and more than 200 injured. More than 250 persons reportedly have been arrested.

The army declared it was ready to take extreme measures to put down students protesting what they called fraud in last December's elections that returned Ydigoras' conservative party to control of Congress.

Troop Heavily Armed

Heavily armed troops took over key communication and transportation points and patrolled the streets. An 8 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew was clamped on the city. Antigovernment strikes spread and businesses shut down. Commercial life was nearly stopped.

The army also searched for two small, rebel bands in the mountains in northern and northeastern Guatemala.

One group is led by Carlos Paz Tejada, who was defense minister under former pro-Communist President Jacobo Arbenz, ousted in a 1954 coup. Paz Tejada is used a manifesto early this week urging the people to overthrow Ydigoras. Arbenz was last reported in Havana as a guest of Ydigoras' arch foe, Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Castro's Havana radio hailed the Guatemalan insurgents, declaring, "We salute our beloved brothers of Guatemala who are covering themselves with glory fighting for their democratic rights and national liberation."

Milwaukee Man Convicted for Killing Daughter

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Rudolph Neuenfeldt, 53, was convicted Friday night of first degree murder in the death of his 16-year-old daughter and sentenced to life in prison by Circuit Judge Herbert J. Steffes who said the slaying was "the most brutal crime I have ever encountered."

Steffes, upon hearing the jury's verdict, said it was appropriate and one that "reaffirms our confidence in the jury system."

The judge then asked Neuenfeldt if he wished to say anything.

"The only thing I can say," Neuenfeldt replied, "is that I did not kill my daughter."

"You are lying through your teeth," snapped the judge. "You are compounding one of the most atrocious crimes I have heard of."

Steffes then said he wanted it on the record that he opposed any parole or executive clemency for Neuenfeldt.

Humiliating Paternalism of USSR

Cuba Is Hungry, Broke and Quarrelsome; Needs Russia

HAVANA — Cuba is hungry, broke and quarrelsome.

Housewives stand in long queues outside supermarkets. The sugar crop is a failure. People are grumbling.

To make up for critical shortages, the revolutionary government is buying goods on long-term credit from the Communist bloc.

So dependent has it become on massive Communist aid that it has merely substituted what it considered the humiliating paternalism of the United States for the more humiliating paternalism of Russia and China.

Search Team Sees Objects In Pacific

MANILA (AP) — Search planes reported sighting five partially submerged objects in the western Pacific today along the scheduled route of a chartered airliner that vanished with 107 persons aboard. No persons were seen in the immediate vicinity.

The U.S. destroyer Brister was dispatched to determine what the objects are. The Joint Rescue Center at Agana, Guam, said the Brister is expected to reach the area at dawn Sunday. A KC97 plane was ordered to circle above the objects until the Brister arrives.

Photographic Squadron 61 at Guam sent a Sky Warrior jet to photograph the objects in hopes that the pictures might reveal some identification and possibly furnish a clue to the fate of the four-engine Super Constellation of the Flying Tiger Line.

Chances Slimmer

A U.S. Air Force spokesman declared earlier that "chances are getting slimmer every minute" that any aboard the missing plane would be found alive. The plane was presumed to have crashed or ditched after leaving Guam Thursday night for a 1,600-mile hop to Clark Air Force Base near Manila.

The propeller-driven plane, with a crew of 11 Americans, left Travis Air Force Base in northern California Tuesday carrying 93 U.S. Army men and three South Vietnamese bound for South Viet Nam. The Army men reportedly were to join the U. S. forces bolstering the South Viet Nam government's fight against the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

The plane made scheduled refueling and service stops at Hawaii, Wake Island and Guam. It was last heard from 270 miles

Space Agency Plans Flights For Slayton

WASHINGTON (AP) — Donald K. "Deke" Slayton will miss by a few heartbeats being the next American to be shot into space. But his chief in Project Mercury says, "We fully intend to use him in future flights."

The Mercury director, Robert R. Gilruth, said Friday that Slayton was as likely as any of the six other astronauts to make future ventures into space—despite an occasionally erratic heart beat.

In fact, Gilruth indicated at a press conference that he felt the 38-year-old Air Force major could just as well be in the pilot's seat for the upcoming orbital trip.

"My own feeling is that Deke is an extremely competent engineer, a near-tested pilot and entirely capable of this mission," said Gilruth. "In no case has the abnormality in the Soviet army, has recently interfered with Deke's performance in the space."

The view was seconded by the physician for the astronauts, Dr. William Douglas.

Senator Wants Health, Tobacco Commissioner

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Maurice B. Neuberger, D-Ore., introduced a resolution Friday calling on President Kennedy to appoint a commission on tobacco and health. It would launch a program to inform the public of what she said were the hazards of cigarette smoking.

The commission would be directed to conduct a full investigation, seek means to reduce or eliminate any hazards and to deal with economic problems that would arise from a sharp curtailment in tobacco consumption.

Attic Theatre Has Big Plans for 1962 Season

New Board of Governors to be Elected; Tryouts for 4 Plays Set for Next Week

BY JENGO

A history-making meeting scheduled for 4 p.m. Sunday at the Elm Tree Bakery Ambrosia Room will launch the Attic Theatre on a week of concentrated activity in the preparation for its 1962 summer season.

With the election of a 15-member board of governors, Appleton's community theatre will take the final step toward incorporation.

Mrs. Ted Cloak, founder and managing director who retired last summer, originally organized a public relations council. Attic members, wishing to perpetuate Attic Theatre in the spirit in which it had been founded, adopted articles of incorporation providing for the election of a board of governors to carry on activities of the Community Theatre.

In future years, one third of the 15 board members will be elected each year at a March annual meeting.

Members of Attic Theatre have been divided into junior, active, and honorary members, with voting privileges restricted to active members. A lifetime position of which will be guest-directed by founding governor has been elected Mrs. Cloak.

As usual, Attic Theatre tryouts provisions were made for men open to anyone who lives aging director to hold an ex-officio position on the board. Three tryouts will be held on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week in the renee College campus. Invitations conference room of Appleton Pub. have gone out to the friends of the library. Defenders Aid Kangaroo Court Trial

BY TV SCOUT

7:30-8:30 (Channel 2) — Reginald Rose, the creator of The Defenders, has written tonight's episode. It is a highly original drama with impact and scope. It opens with a beautifully directed scene in which a group of New York boys' club members set the stage for a murder trial. They plan to try one of their own (Martin Sheen) for the zip-gun killing of a friendly janitor. E. G. Marshall, Robert Reed and Biff McGuire (who plays the boys' club head) stumble onto this well-run kangaroo court and gradually guide it towards justice.

6:30-7:30 (Channel 2) — Perry Mason has its best story in years — a simple, logical and intriguing mystery, with a conclusion that for once in Perry's television life-time you can understand. The dead man is a cartoonist or he may be a brilliant but penniless artist and the chief suspect is Mason's client, the cartoonist's assistant Zazu Pitts, as the artist's neighbor, flutters less than usual, she wanted a straight part and this is it.

7:30-8:30 (Channel 11) — Room For One More considers the problem of the husband whose wife is always gadding about. In this case George (Andrew Duggan) must contend with the absence of Anna (Peggy McCay) who has gone on the lecture circuit to talk about raising foster children.

Your Problems

Relatives, Not Girl, Concerned With Possibility of No Children

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a registered nurse, 24, and engaged to marry a wonderful man who is the same age.

He told me several months ago that because of a childhood illness he may never be able to have children. I have accepted this and am sure we can have a good marriage in spite of it.

A few close relatives have warned me against marrying a man who cannot give me a family.

at Lumpy's, and Beaver wants Gilbert to stay overnight with him. But the senior Cleavers artist) and the chief suspect is Mason's client, the cartoonist's assistant Zazu Pitts, as the artist's neighbor, flutters less than usual, she wanted a straight part and this is it.

8:10 (Channel 4-5) — A 12-year-old crime show, which is beginning to show its whiskers, is the offering on Saturday Night at the Movies this week. "Where the Sidewalk Ends" may have been gripping when it first came out, but television fans have been through so much of this that it's now gripless. Dana Andrews is a tough cop, who gets in a jam and tries to wiggle his way out criminally Gary Merrill and Gene Tierney have the chief supporting roles.

8:30-9 (Channel 2) — Paladin, about a dozen other television cowboys, already have been through the problem Have Gun, Will Travel presents. It is the job of finding the mother of the elegant Eastern-raised girl — and knowing full well that Mama is a saloon type. In this case the job is complicated by the townspeople, who now resent their hawking past and keep Mama locked up comfortably where nobody will see her.

9:10 (Channel 2) — Gunsmoke has another downbeat ending this week, but at least the victim deserves it. Joe Maross plays a no-good whose cheating and killing go unpunished, until Marshall Dillon decides to take the law into his own hands.

They say I will regret it later. One aunt in particular refused to help my mother with the wedding plans (she is a cateress) when I told her my little secret.

I plan to marry Carl anyway. Do you think I will be sorry? — R.N.

Dear R.N.: If you love Carl, marry him. You can consider adoption later.

As for your relatives, why did you blab to them in the first place? This matter comes under the heading of strictly personal business. You were grossly unfair to your fiancé to give the "little secret" such wide circulation.

It is entirely possible that one day you will have children of your own and then, of course, you could be the target for some ugly speculation. Keep quiet from now on.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The past four years have been unbearable. I'll admit that I'm the one who starts all the fights at our house. My husband doesn't say a word. The reason I blow up so often is because I am not getting a square deal.

My husband and I run a business together. In addition to taking care of the house and children, I put in a full day at the business.

The trouble sets in when my husband takes time off in the middle of the afternoon to entertain himself. A few afternoons a week he leaves to play golf or maybe just to go home and take a nap. (The doctor says golf is good for his heart.)

I've thought of walking out on the business and making him hire someone to do my job but I can't. The business just barely makes a living for us. If we had to pay an outsider a full time salary we would go in the red.

My husband's health isn't too good, but sometimes I think he uses this as an excuse to loaf. What can I do? — Stuck but Good

Dear Stuck: You can change your attitude. Not so much for his sake but for your own. Your resentment is probably more damaging than the hard work. When a husband is not in good health his wife must often pull a double load. Of course it's tough on her, but life can hand down some punishing decisions. Consider this your cross to bear and accept it with grace.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Your advice to the childless couple in their 40's who wanted to adopt their niece's out-of-wedlock child was superb. We went through the identical experience. This is what happened to us.

Our niece promised us faithfully that she would never let the boy know she was his mother. Well, she kept her word — for 18 months. Then one evening she came to our home with her boy friend, took the child, clothing and all.

She told our housekeeper that we had given her permission to take the baby for the weekend. We had to hire detectives to bring them back. The girl wouldn't give up her child. An ugly court fight followed. It was a scandalous mess and we lost.

Today our niece is married to a punchy prize-fighter with a jail record. The boy is 13. He looks underfed and wears shabby clothes. He runs with rough necks and is well on his way to delinquency.

It kills us when we run into him downtown, but we can say nothing. His life would have been so different had the girl kept her word. But I guess it was expecting too much — Sad C's

13th Recital at College Features Poynette Pianist

Celoris Hackbart, Poynette, will present the 13th recital in the Lawrence Conservatory student series of the season at 8:15 p.m. Monday in Harper Hall.

Miss Hackbart is a piano major, studying under Theodore Rehl. Her program is based primarily on standard piano repertoire, including Bach, Mozart, Chopin and Prokofiev.

The 1917 "Sonata No. 3" by Prokofiev is a popular single movement work with a bravura style that demands considerable agility, power and vitality. The Chopin scherzo, the last of four written in the composer's maturity, is technically exacting but has great delicacy and a fine lyrical middle section.

The program open to the public without charge is as follows:

Toccata in G Major Bach
Sonata in C Major, K. 330 Mozart
Allegro moderato Andante cantabile Allegretto scherzo in E Major, Op. 54 Chopin
Sonata No. 3 in A Minor, Op. 28 Prokofiev

Minister Finds Discarded Hospital Equipment Is Vital Overseas

PERU, Ill. (AP)—A minister in a church publication gave the town's old X-ray machine? The this Northern Illinois town has given a new twist to the old fashioned rummage sale and hopes his variation will grow into a nationwide effort to help foreign missionaries.

The Rev. Ralph Burlingham, pastor of the Peru Congregational Church, suggests churches and individuals collect discarded but usable medical equipment—outmoded X-ray machines, operating tables, needles, syringes and the like—and ship them to remote areas where churchmen tell him they are needed sorely.

He is convinced such equipment is in good supply in hospital storerooms across the country and with hardly any effort at all, he has collected a couple of cast-off operating tables and an operating room light originally valued at $5,300.

A chance observation of a new X-ray machine in his home town hospital and an article he read

Literary Man Works Like Scientist

Prof. Beck Tells Lawrence Students How to Succeed

"One thing we all can learn from science is that just because something cannot be explained does not mean it does not exist or is unreal," Dr. Warren Beck, emeritus professor of English, told Lawrence College students Thursday at the annual honors day convocation.

"In fact," Beck said, "this frontier of inexplicable phenomena is where the creative scholar in science does his work daily. He persists until he has explained, and then having cleaned up as he goes along, he moves on further."

A literary artist works in the same manner, equipped only with his five senses and his sense of things. "But the insights he arrives at are neither precise nor inclusive. They are surmises and sometimes wild surmises. The major portion of his address dealt with polarities in literature, particularly the polarities of universality and individuality.

"In literature, any tendency toward the universal pauses at something less than the whole truth," he said. "A literary work may sufficiently reveal the typicality of aspects of individual human experience to elicit wide assent and vital response. Still it would be more circumspect to call this not universality but representativeness."

Individuality in literature is warranted only to point out qualities in the play poem essay or story itself. "Individuality in literature is not a matter of biography, and still less of personality cult, or of an author's desirability, whether intriguing or revolting," he said.

Both individuality and representativeness should rest primarily on literary works considered singly and closely, he indicated. "Indeed, it is out of particularity that large implications arise. In all exercises of mind there is this dialogue between text and principle," the professor stated.

The two elements of representativeness and individuality are not always evenly balanced, he observed. "Either may predominate, even as largely as the horseman in the notorious rabbit hash, which was half and half one rabbit to one horse."

The literary artist does not force conformity, but seeks consent from the reader. "When readers respond with a comparable surmise, they bring into play a human capacity for a humane concurrence. . . . And the concurrence elicited by art, far from devaluing individuality, enhances it," he stated.

"Our ultimate delight and reward in literature," he concluded, "is discovered in the artist's personal surmise made recognizable by fusion into the representative work of art, and its relative validity certified by our personal assent."

The POWER of FAITH

The Faith of An Uneducated youth led St. Patrick from slavery to sainthood.

Captured in a pirate raid on Britain at the age of 16, he was taken to Ireland. "Every day I had to tend sheep," he wrote "and many times a day I prayed—the love of God and His fear came to me more and more, and my faith was strengthened."

Escaping to Gaul six years later, he dreamed of bringing the love of Christ to his captors. He studied for the priesthood was consecrated Bishop, and returned to Ireland. There he converted the country to Christianity, improving the lot of slaves, uniting ethics with law, denouncing hatred and bloodshed, and giving "Him thanks who hath strengthened me in everything."

Ireland Forever!

Samuel Johnson, an Englishman and therefore in the 18th Century caustic about the Celts on the Emerald Isle, once said that "the Irish are a fair people; they never speak well of one another." Whenever we are charged with being anti-Irish, we remember this with some consolation. Perhaps it is only the fault in ourselves that we are really qualified to note.

But there is good reason why on St. Patrick's Day there are only two kinds of people in the world—the Irish and those who wish they were. More than any other people on earth, even exposed as they are to travel, traffic and trade, the Irish have remained themselves. Whether it is their independence we admire, their faith, their mysticism, their musical tongue or their wit, they stand alone and truckle to no man.

In one of his beautiful books of roaming among the Irish, Robert Gibbons writes of the time he has been away.

"And what is five years in Ireland? A few of the young people had grown taller and a few of the old people had grown a little bent, but for the most part . . . it might have been no more than a night's sleep with a few heavy dreams. Only one change that I could notice. At the head of the valley, remote, among the mountains, there is a house that is no longer occupied. About a year after I left, the devil came down the chimney of the house one night. He came out through the bars of the grate and he had chains on his legs and he flew across the room and out at the window. The family were sitting around the fire at the time and it nearly frightened the wits out of them. They left the house next morning and no one has lived in it since. That is the only change."

And that, of course, is really no change at all.

And the land of Youth lies gleaming flushed with rainbow light and mirth, And the old enchantment lingers in the honey-heart of earth.

And may it linger forever!

Mr. Laird on the Farm Bill

Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Marshfield, charges that Sec. of Agriculture Freeman is trying to blackmail dairy farmers into accepting his control program by giving them only two choices in the referendum which will be required to establish the dairy program.

Rep. Laird has issued a statement discussing the terms in House Bill 10010 submitted by President Kennedy which Laird says Freeman and some farm leaders now are attempting to rush through Congress without proper discussion. He says the proposal could result in Wisconsin dairy-men being forced to take still more reduction in income.

The present dairy support law, Laird says, is a permanent law with no expiration date. He disagrees with the interpretation of this law by both Sec. Freeman and his predecessor, Sec. Benson, which he says forced a reduction in the price assured farmers for their milk. He thinks the farmers could be given a choice of retaining the present law which supports a price minimum of 75 per cent ranging up to 90 per cent of parity. In fact he says there should be four choices available to Wisconsin farmers: (1) Freeman's supply management control program contained in H. R. 10010, with a milk production cutback of at least 7½ per cent to receive 90 per cent price supports; (2) price supports at zero to 90 per cent, the so-called Freeman alternative contained in H. R. 10010; (3) the present permanent price support law of from 75 per cent to 90 per cent of parity without production controls; (4) self-help dairy stabilization marketing program run by the dairy farmers themselves.

Laird points out that if as many as 34 per cent of the total dairy farmer population of the United States could cast a negative vote, then the price supports will go from a minimum of 75 per cent parity to a minimum of 0 per cent. Quite obviously it is expected that farmers will refuse to vote for a bill with a minimum of zero per cent even if they have to accept the production control offered by Freeman.

But Laird has other objections to the bill. According to the secretary's estimate, quotas in the first year would require farmers to cut back on their milk production by from 5 per cent to 8 per cent of their production last year. It is estimated that the first year of operation a cut of 7½ per cent would be sufficient provided no exemptions were granted. But one section of the proposal would grant Freeman authority to establish minimum allotments. Thus the secretary would have authority to exempt small producers from the production cuts required of Wisconsin farmers in this program. These exemptions could be set at a minimum of 15,000 pounds, 100,000 pounds or any level. And Rep. Laird says if the minimum were established at 35,000 pounds it would exclude 1,100,000 milk producers from controls. This would be equivalent to a five-cow exemption and would be expected to encourage a tremendous increase in small herds all over the country because of the higher price supports guarantee. Eventually this would make Wisconsin producers take still greater cuts, Laird contends.

Another section would permit the secretary to exempt certain areas of the country from control provisions of the dairy program. Thus, the secretary could exempt "for relief of shortages in deficit production areas." Since there is no definition of a deficit area in the bill, the secretary would have wide discretion in the matter.

Rep. Laird contends that "there is no such thing as a deficit area in this year, 1962, with our modern transportation system," and he continues that the great weakness of the bill is that "no provision is made in the bill for the free movement of milk in interstate commerce." The Laird statement is an interesting one and should help to give Wisconsin farmers a clear picture of what is proposed for them at Washington.

Parley at Geneva

There is a certain here-we-go-again attitude in the United States as disarmament talks are resumed in Geneva. There should be. The talks in the past have resulted in no real progress toward world disarmament or a lessening of the danger of catastrophic nuclear warfare. And yet there still is something to be said for the point of view that as long as we are talking we are not fighting. But this is tenable only as long as we remain highly suspicious of any Soviet suggestions and have a sound knowledge of the things we can negotiate and those we can't.

This time we are at least carrying a fairly big stick as we go into the session. President Kennedy's announcement that we would resume atmospheric nuclear tests near the end of April unless we had by then an effective nuclear test ban agreement with solid controls has put the burden of concessions upon the Russians. But it will be easy to throw away this advantage. The Soviet Union delegates are adept at dragging in extraneous discussions. They will do everything in their power to lure us away from the true purpose of the conference—or at least our true purpose—the saving of the world from nuclear war without turning it over to Communist slavery.

When disarmament talks first opened several years ago, there was hope that the Russians were sincere. The optimism faded with the constant roadblocks the Communists threw up, the unexplainable conflicts, the stubborn refusals, the repeated walkouts. By last summer most observers were willing to concede that the Russians didn't really want an agreement of any kind. They specifically didn't want a real nuclear inspection. The reason became clear in September when the Soviets resumed a series of nuclear atmospheric tests.

Now quite naturally the Russians want to keep us from testing particularly if they are ahead of us as a result of their series of tests. How far they actually will go in discussing or agreeing to inspection and controls in order to prevent our testing is yet to be seen. Presumably they will stall, then seem to be in agreement and then stall again.

Realistically, it's the best chance we have had yet to scrounge something from them despite the rosy look some of the summit meetings assumed. But it still isn't a very good chance.

Scientists Seek Calls From Space

From the Wichita Eagle

Leading scientists recently held a conference at Green Bank, W. Va., in which they rated communication with other worlds in the universe as a distinct possibility.

This has little to do with inter-planetary space travel. In fact, some of the scientists believe space travel is not practicable for this or any other civilization. A physicist said interstellar rockets "belong right where they are — on cereal boxes."

The value these scientists attached to trying to get into communication with other worlds is the chance of an exchange of experiences. The current crisis on Earth might have been survived successfully by other worlds. Scientists would like to learn whether self-destruction is a characteristic of civilizations throughout the universe or whether some of them may have found the way to meet such crises.

That there are other civilizations in the universe is, of course, only a plausible estimate. We have no reason to think there are not: no proof that there are. Exchanging intelligible signals with them would be the next problem. It would require generations to communicate with the distant ones.

Essentially, this is further evidence that even the most knowledgeable of humans have to look beyond their own puny horizons for help in its time of need. Science, in its self-confidence, believes it can solve its problems by communication with other-world science. Most of the rest of us pray to a higher power in time of stress. To paraphrase a Kansas poet of other days, "Some of us call it science and others call it God."

Last month the governor of the Brazilian state of Rio Grande do Sul expropriated the local telephone company, a subsidiary of IT&T.

He claimed the company provided very poor service.

IT&T officials immediately cried foul. Their anger was not addressed directly to the expropriation, which is legal under Brazilian law and not unprecedented in South America or most anywhere else. What infuriated them was the size of the proffered compensation.

Brazilian law says it must be just. Gov. Leonel Brizola thought $400,000 sufficient and put up that amount. IT&T officials termed the figure ridiculous and insisted the property was worth $10 million.

The Big Problem

The argument seems destined to become a lengthy and legalistic dispute, with the U. S. State Department doing what it can to induce a fair settlement. The incident, however, draws attention to one of the thorniest areas of relations between the United States and the restless nations of Latin America.

Every economist agrees that Latin America's big need is for capital investment: the money it takes to build factories, improve transportation, create jobs and get an economy spiraling upward. The possible sources of this money are Latin Americans themselves, foreigners willing to invest in Latin America, or aid programs of foreign governments.

Can't Do It Alone

The much-publicized "Alliance for Progress" — involving a U. S. government aid of $20 billion over the next decade — represents the Kennedy administration's determination to increase the flow of capital from the third source. No one, however, believes that Uncle Sam at his most generous could single-handedly generate the economic steam it will take to substantially raise the Latin American level of economic activity or the region's standard of living.

Latin Americans have been criticized for not re-investing more heavily in their own economies and have been urged to better their performance.

And American businessmen are being encouraged to increase their rates of investment: to join Uncle Sam in priming the Latin American pump for the benefit of all and the consternation of Communists.

Looking Backward

Fiendish Designs Discovered

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for March 15, 1862.

Columbus, Ky. — March 9 — The rebels who have been stationed here seem to have been possessed with the spirit of the devil himself.

The bluffs on the north end of their works are from 250 to 300 feet high and extend up the river at that height some distance. Outside their works for some distance is a sloping plain which had been cleared of all trees and underbrush and would be the only approach for our infantry in case of hand to hand combat.

After two days' exploration for infernal machines and to discover where the bluffs had been mined, as was reported, Capt. Schmitt and a company of the 27th Regiment discovered ridges of new earth, similar to ridges formed by covering water pipes in the city. They were traced to a cavern.

Effecting an entrance, they found a strong frame covered by earth to attract no attention. Inside this, with the assistance of a light, were found implements similar to those used in a telegraph office with wires running in a dozen different directions.

Following the raised rows of earth, they soon came to a spot where something had been buried. Digging down some five feet, they found a large iron cask, about three feet high and a foot and a half through, in the shape of a well-formed pear, as near as can be described. It had an iron cap fastened with screws.

Taking off the cap, there were found grape, cannister and four pound shell surrounded by about two bushels of coarse powder. On the bottom of the cask there was a wooden box containing several batteries with hollow wires attached to two larger wires that were covered with a substance impervious to water, connecting with the cavern before spoken of. A dozen of these iron pots or cases were thus united with this cavern.

Half a dozen of these caverns have been found and probably 75 to 100 of these infernal machines are thus buried in the earth, some distance from the enemy's works.

A sentinel would give the operator inside the cavern the signal, and he would send the electric spark through all the wires and decamp.

The result may be imagined. Whole regiments could thus be comes rocky and where an expropriation like the recent one in Rio Grande do Sul raises all sorts of warning flags in front of American capital.

The stormy petrel of Latin American politics is Fidel Castro. As an expropriator of American property he has few peers. His state economy has absorbed practically all of the $900 million U. S. business had invested in Cuba before he took over. There have been no serious signs of reimbursement.

The Castro example spread through Latin America. U. S. businessmen would take a shelling. On the other hand, if the capital isn't risked, if U. S. business doesn't actively participate in Latin American development, the resulting lack of progress will only increase the pressures threatening to topple friendly Latin American governments.

In a recent study, marketing and foreign trade specialist John M. Dyer of the University of Miami pointed out that private direct investment is always more successful than government investment. He put the ratio at one to three: "a dollar of private investment achieves the total effect of approximately three dollars of governmental investment." The reasons he cited were elimination of government administrative cost and the higher incidence of business acumen.

Despite hazards real or imagined, U. S. private capital has been steadily flowing into Latin America over the last decade. From less than $3 billion at the end of 1945, U. S. direct investments rose to over $9 billion by 1961. This represents about one-fourth of the American business investment all over the world. According to the Chase Manhattan Bank, over a third of Latin America's industrial and mining production comes from U. S. companies, a third of all Latin American exports originate with these companies, and about a fifth of all Latin American taxes — and a third of the income taxes — are paid by U. S. companies.

Pace Has Slowed

Since 1958, however, the pace has slowed. For the past four years the rate of growth of U. S. direct investment has accelerated in Canada and Europe, but flattened out in Latin America.

Because of its oil, Venezuela has attracted more U. S. investment than any other Latin American country. In 1960 (see map), total value of U. S. private investment there was $2.5 billion. Other leaders were Brazil, $550 million; Mexico, $790 million, and Chile, $730 million.

While extractive industries (oil, mining, agricultural commodities) have in the past been most interested in Latin American manufacturing is taking hold. The size of manufacturing investment jumped 100 per cent between 1950 and 1960 with the fastest growing category in this sector being machinery and automotive equipment.

Deny Charges

One of the most frequent charges leveled at American businessmen in South America is that they are there not to assist in the development of the country but only to extract profits. Gov. Brizola echoed this sentiment in a news conference after publication of his expropriation decree:

"We in Latin America have two problems holding back our programs," he said. "One is latifundistas — extreme large landowners — and the other is the foreign economic group or those local economic groups allied with them. Unless we get rid of these groups, the Alliance for Progress will not work — they will eat all the dollars provided for aid, and in less than 10 years, if these problem groups remain, all the dollars will be back in the United States."

American businessmen categorically deny this charge. According to Chase Manhattan, the average level of earnings has been running at a little over 9 per cent of invested capital during the past decade, a rate lower than in most domestic U. S. industries.

Another report, for 1955, puts the total local payments (for wages, rental, taxes, etc.) of American-owned companies in Latin America at $4.3 billion. Total remittances to the investor that year were $650 million, or a ratio of $6.6 paid out locally to $1 paid to the investor.

Nelson Refuses to Be Forced into Early Announcement of Plan

Reynolds in Bid for Governorship

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON—Gov. Gaylord Nelson has announced that he does not intend to be "forced by anyone" into an early announcement of his personal political plans for the year, but that he will be happy to support the gubernatorial bid of Attorney General John W. Reynolds of Green Bay.

Nelson earlier in the week flatly declared that he has no intention of running again for the governorship, but he has resisted all pressures to verify the widespread belief that he will become the Democratic nominee for U. S. Senator against Republican Sen. Alexander Wiley.

Evidently annoyed by the persistent questioning on the point at his regular news conferences, the governor late Friday greeted reporters with a brief mimeograph-fire department was at the scene. Civil defense policemen assisted in directing traffic.

The first floor of the three-story building formerly was occupied by a restaurant but is now vacant.

Four Roomers
The owner of the building, William Barney, 1916 Merritt Ave., said there were four roomers living there. Eichmann apparently was the only person in the building when the fire started.

Another of the roomers, William Fero, 62, was arrested by the police for being drunk and disorderly after he made three attempts to enter the burning structure.

Barney said he could not give any estimate of damage at this time.

Sabotage Hinted In Disappearance Of U. S. Airliner

BURBANK, Calif. (AP)—Investigators gathered today to re-ly, step by step, the route taken by an airliner that disappeared over the Pacific.

Probers hope to find, somewhere along the route, a clue to the mysterious disappearance of the super-constellation carrying 197 persons—most of them U.S. military fighters en route to Viet Nam.

Sabotage has been hinted. So has a possibility that the plane was hijacked.

Investigators also hope to answer this question: Was the disappearance of the Flying Tiger Line plane west of Guam connected with the crash earlier Thursday of a Flying Tiger cargo plane in Alaska?

Both planes were based at the Flying Tigers headquarters here. All mechanical records for the planes are in Burbank. So probers decided to start work here, although both flights originated at Travis Air Force Base, near San Francisco.

The cargo plane, carrying military gear to Saigon via the northern route, crashed at Adak, killing one man.

Return to Korea Planned by Rhee

HONOLULU (AP)—Ailing Syngman Rhee, deposed as president of South Korea after bloody uprisings, says he will fly to his homeland today whether he's welcome or not.

In Seoul, the surprised South Korean government made it plain he is not welcome.

The military government refused him permission to return, even though the elderly Tiger of Korea issued a statement here Friday saying he was sorry "if I have committed errors."

Gen. Chung Hec Park, head of the South Korean military government, and other officials said they had no advance word that Rhee had decided to return home.

31-Year-Old Marriage Of Mrs. Rockefeller Ends in 10 Minutes

RENO, Nev. (AP)—The 31-year marriage of the Nelson Rockefeller dissolved here in less than 10 minutes.

Mrs. Rockefeller was granted the divorce from the New York governor Friday on the grounds of mental cruelty.

She returned by plane to Philadelphia immediately after the early morning court appearance. Her two brothers, John and Percy Clark, met her. No one would comment.

A witness at the closed hearing before District Court Judge Grant Bowen said, "Mary Rockefeller must have aged 10 years between the 9 and 10 o'clock." The actual legal proceedings—a few questions by the judge and a few answers by the plaintiff—took less than 10 minutes.

west of Guam, when the pilot radioed a routine message without a hint of trouble.

Search Area Tripled

After fruitless flights Friday, officials tripled the search area and pressed nearly 100 planes and nine ships into systematic crisscrossing of more than 250,000 square miles of calm Pacific waters.

More than 50 planes from U.S. Air Force and naval installations in the Philippines and 40 more from U.S. bases on Guam scoured almost every conceivable path the pilot of the missing plane might have taken.

Each plane was assigned a 60-square-mile search area. The Philippine-based planes covered an ocean rectangle 700 miles long and 180 miles wide along the airliner's scheduled route, and the planes and ships from Guam scoured a comparable area.

Down At Sea

An Air Force spokesman said the plane most likely went down at sea.

"Much depends on whether the pilot attempted a ditching, and how successful it was," the spokesman said, noting that a successful ditching would involve life rafts, easier to see from the air than small pieces of debris.

"It's a mighty big ocean," he said, "but with all those planes out there searching systematically, they should be able to find whatever there is to find."

Flights were sent up during the night in hopes that flares would be sighted. None was seen. But nobody was ready to give up.

Light-Hearted Mays Begins 2nd Decade

By Jerry Liska

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—It's a light-hearted Willie Mays starting his second decade of major league baseball.

The say-hey kid, who broke in with the New York Giants in 1951, matured quite a few years ago, naturally. But still the 30-year-old Willie has been more like his old self in the San Francisco Giant camp this spring.

Nobody in camp says much about it, but the apparent settlement of the brilliant center fielder's domestic trouble has relaxed Willie considerably.

He's a happy, different Willie which, of course, might not be too difficult for any one receiving the $90,000 salary reportedly paid Mays for his 11th season.

Willie is willing to enjoy—or give—a laugh a minute in between his hustling conditioning work. He clowned for photographers by pretending he was being tried as a third baseman. He even makes a production of keeping on the helmet Manager Al Dark requires all hitters to wear, even in the batting cage.

Willie isn't too perturbed about his .308 batting mark of last season, his lowest since hitting .296 in 1956.

"There were 40 homers wrapped up in there," Mays said. "The main thing is to keep hitting .300. If I could get up to .330, so much the better."

After a spectacular first decade over which he averaged .316 with a career total of 319 homers and 335 RBIs, how does Willie feel?

"I only hope I come close to those first 16 years in success," said Mays. "Hank Sauer (Giants batting coach) told me he had his biggest years after he turned 30. That'll be fine if it happens to me, too."

Patrolman Lets Air Out Of His Sergeant's Tires

Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—An off-duty patrolman has been accused of letting the air out of a tire on his sergeant's patrol car, making the vehicle temporarily inoperable.

Department officials said Friday that patrolman Gerald White, 25, will face a police board of inquiry. Sgt. James A. Dolan said he caught White in the act of deflating the tire.

Detroit Top Challenger Nothing Close to Yanks In AL, Dykes Declares

By Jack Hand

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP)—Jimmy Dykes should be the greatest living authority on the American League. He played in the league from 1918 through 1939 and managed or coached teams in it from 1934 through 1960, with a couple of side excursions to the minors and the National League.

Back in the National League as a coach under manager Birdie Tebbetts of the Milwaukee Braves, Dykes at 65 is free to say anything he wants about the American League. As he managed Cleveland and Detroit in his most recent tours of duty, his opinion on their chances of beating the New York Yankees should be enlightening.

"There is nothing close to the Yankees," said Jimmy. "They say they don't have any shortstop with Tony Kubek in the Army but there isn't any shortstop in the league better than young (Tom) Tresh and (Phil) Linz."

Cash Good Hitter

"Detroit has got to be the best of the rest. They should give the Yankees their toughest battle. The Tigers have pitching with (Frank) Lary, (Jim) Bunning and (Don) Mossi. Maybe (Paul) Foytack will come through for them. I am afraid Sam Jones won't be as much help as they hope for."

"That (Norm) Cash is a real good hitter. Maybe he won't hit .361 again but he'll be up there. Did you know I was the guy who put him on first base? We got him right here in this park. Runt Marr, who was scouting for Cleveland, came to me and said Frank Lane was worried about his infield and wanted a fellow we had, Steve Demeter. We made the deal the next day. Demeter for Cash. A pretty fair deal for Detroit. He is a long ball hitter in a perfect park."

"Cleveland could have some real good pitching with (Gary) Bell, (Barry) Latman, (Jim) Perry and (Dick) Donovan. They have a young kid, Sam McDowell, who looks like a real good one. He shut out Baltimore last year for 1-3 innings until he broke two ribs in his right side while pitching."

Cuba Hungry, Broke, Dependent on Russia

Cuba's physicians have been most exasperated in their activities.

"For instance," he said, "when a father asks a doctor what he can do about his daughter's diarrhea, he's told to give her apple juice."

"Now the doctor knows there's no apple juice in Cuba, but the father will dutifully go from store to store inquiring for it. The idea, of course, is to embarrass the government."

Assassination Tries

Aside from this type of mild obstruction, there have been increasing cases of assassination attempts.

One of these, according to Henning Sorrenson, a Vancouver Communist now serving as adviser to the Cuban government on Canadian affairs, was the attempt on the life of Carlos Rafael Rodriguez.

Rodriguez is the Cuban Communist intellectual who is reported to be doing much of Fidel's thinking for him.

Sorrenson said that two counter-revolutionaries "paid by the CIA" Central Intelligence Agency of the United States lay in wait with machineguns along a highway outside Havana. When Rodriguez's car came into sight, they opened up.

"The patrol accompanying Rodriguez saved him," Sorrenson said. "They killed one of the assassins, but the second man escaped."

More Serious

Far more serious than these isolated incidents of gunfire is the swelling rumble of dissatisfaction and disillusionment the food shortage has caused in Cuba.

People now speak openly in the streets about trouble to come.

One Negro workman put it this way to me: "How long can we go without food? People are going to go hungry in Cuba and they're going to blame the Communists. It doesn't look healthy here, I tell you."

Because the revolution was the product of idealistic guerrilla fighters and there has been a genuine attempt to better the lives of Cuba's 7 million people, it is too painful for the left-wing intellectuals to believe what is now happening.

I took up this question with Jacques Theodore, who was identified as a Belgian worker. Theodore said that only after he arrived in Cuba several months ago did he realize how empty and meaningless capitalism was.

At the time we were sitting in the lobby of the modernistic Riviera Hotel, built by American capital and confiscated after the revolution to serve as a showcase "home" for guests of the Cuban government.

Food Shortage

If everything was going so well in Cuba, how did Theodore account for the grave shortage of food?

"Food shortage?" he asked. "Actually that's one of these surface observations that is so misleading."

Why was that?

"Well, it may be true there is a certain shortage of food in Cuba, but there's no shortage of calories."

I left Jacques at this point because there was nothing left to say.

To read the major speeches of Cuba's revolutionary leaders is to get an idea of the revolution's thinking.

Note, for example, how Castro explained his land reform to the Cuba peasants:

Small Holdings

"You can keep your small holdings," he told them, adding, however, "the revolution believes of small land holdings do not yield sufficiently... the revolution sees the solution of the problem in the co-operative."

This neat logic was recently elaborated by Capt. Antonio Nuñez Jimenez, executive director of the Hug Agrarian Reform Institute known as INRA:

"Numerous peasants," said Jimenez, "have been freed from paying rent as tenants since about the middle of 1960, despite not having received their property titles yet — let latter being only a formality, because in fact and theory they are the lawful owners of the land which they work."

In other words, instead of his privately owned and operated sugar estates, there are now his state-owned and operated estates. That solved that problem.

Jobs Needed

Cuba's other pressing need was to eliminate its unemployment pool of 600,000 peasants and create more jobs for another 500,000 men who worked seasonally as sugar-cane cutters.

By creating public works projects, such as construction of government buildings, many men were employed.

Heavy enlistment in the armed forces and militia gave jobs to additional thousands. The others simply moved to the cities and towns and got on government payrolls.

And so, without increasing production, Cuba's unemployment problem has been solved.

In the meantime, the new sugar crop has ripened and there is a desperate shortage of cane cutters. To make up for it, the government has had to recruit "volunteers" from the labor unions in towns and cities.

This is so despite the fact that a drought has cut the sugar-cane yield.

Poor Cane Cutters

The yield has been further reduced because, it is said, amateur cane cutters last year slashed the stalks too low, killing some plants, or too high, causing others to sprout.

But the real mystery of the food situation in Cuba today is what has happened to the new market-gardening produce that was supposed to have resulted from diverting cane fields to such crops as potatoes, tomatoes and corn.

And where is all the meat from the cattle herds?

Nobody knows.

The strangest aspect is that February and March — according to Cuba's economists in this "year of action" — were to be the first months of "plenty."

Yet February saw the disappearance of food and this month the beginning of strict rationing. How could planning go so awry?

For the answer to that one, you have to go to particular cases.

Stange, Mincher Being Counted on to Help Strengthen Twins

Tuttle Back in Center Field; Mele Isn't Sure Where He'll Play Killebrew

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Lack of counting heavily on him, along with left-handed power, a leaky infield with Pileis, a 23-year-old southpaw and skippy secondary pitching to team up with the 35-year-old were largely responsible for Min-Moore in the bullpen.

Stange's seventh place finish last year in the American League. What is Sam Mele, the young man who succeeded Cookie Lavagetto last June as the Twins' manager, doing about it?

"We've added Don Mincher, a young southpaw swinger with power, at first base," said Mele. "He hit 24 home runs at Buffalo last year. He's wearing glasses now for the first time and he looks much better at the plate than he did with us last spring."

"We're returning Bill Tuttle to center field, where he is one of the best. He did well at third base last year but that is not his natural position. We have several fine young pitchers in camp and I'm certain two or three of them, along with veterans Ray Moore and Al Schroll, will greatly improve our bullpen."

Top Prospects

Among the top prospects for relief work are lefty Bill Pileis and right-handers Al Stange, Georges Maranda and Bruce Swann. Stange, who pitched at Syracuse last year, has looked especially impressive in camp.

The installation of the 23-year-old Mincher at first base and the restoration of Tuttle in center field pose a couple of interesting questions. The first is where to play according to final individual statistics released Thursday by the Western Conference Service Bureau.

Dischinger topped four records and equalled two. Ray broke two records and tied two. Lucas shattered two marks, too. The first is where to play according to final individual statistics released Thursday by the Western Conference Service Bureau.

South Viet Nam's First Lady Plans Good-Will Journey

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Jacqueline Kennedy may have started a new trend. South Viet Nam's glamorous first lady, Non Dam Nhat, plans to leave soon on a junket of her own.

Mrs. Nhu, sister-in-law of bachelor President Ngo Dinh Diem, disclosed she will head a parliamentary delegation late this month on a tour of Latin America, England and Italy.

She told an interviewer she hoped to return in time for the August sessions of the National Assembly in which she holds a seat.

Mrs. Nhu, petite and attractive, showed signs of the injuries she suffered in the presidential plane crash and was being treated in a hospital in the United States.

Breeding Stock

Since May of last year, International Air Freighters Ltd., a small Canadian company, has been shipping from Toronto to Havana more than 4,000 breeding pigs and 3,500 dairy cows.

They are being shipped to Cuba, where the government is trying to solve the problem of food shortage.

Del Crandall Goes Distance, Braves Bow 8-6

Maye, Aaron, Jones Blast Homers; Spahn Is Losing Pitcher

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) —There was one good thing about the Milwaukee Braves' Friday exhibition with the St. Louis Cardinals — catcher Del Crandall's right arm apparently withstood the stress of nine innings.

The Braves also continued their heavy hitting, with Hank Aaron, Lee Maye and Mack Jones belting homers, but the Cardinals took an 8-6 victory.

Crandall's route-going performance behind the plate was his first in an actual game since April of last year. He handled his catching duties well, but was really not challenged by the Cards. However, the big backstop failed to hit in four trips.

Spahn's Loser
The loss was hung on Warren Spahn who gave up four runs in the five innings he worked. Larry Maxie followed Spahn and gave up two runs in the sixth and the Cards' last two runs were pounded home in the eighth against Hank Fischer.

Milwaukee started with a pair of runs in the first on Aaron's homer. For the next seven innings they were held to five hits, one an inside the park homer by Jones in the third and Maye's first homer in the seventh.

Denis Menke and Mike Krsnich singled in the ninth and scored on Howie Bedell's triple but the game ended when Jones struck out.

Card starter Harry Jackson, who went six innings, took the victory, allowing three runs and five Milwaukee hits. Paul Toth survived the last three innings to finish up. He also gave up five hits and three runs.

Musical Has Two
The Cards bombed Spahn and his successors for 12 hits, eight of them coming off the old left-hander.

Two of the Card hits were by Stan Musial and they drove in a pair of runs. However, the big Redbird bat was swung by Curt Flood. He drove in four runs with a single, double and a homer.

Flood's two-out, two-run homer put the Cards safely ahead in the sixth.

The Braves were back in Bradenton today to entertain the New York Mets.

Cage Mentor At Oklahoma Quits Friday

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma basketball Coach Doyle Parrack submitted his resignation Friday, saying he feels it to be "in the best interests of the athletic department and the university."

Parrack, whose team had a 7-17 record and finished in a fifth place tie with Nebraska in the Big Eight Conference this season, said the resignation would be effective at the end of the current school term that ends in late May.

He has been the Sooners coach seven years since leaving Oklahoma City University where he was basketball coach eight years. Parrack said that he plans to "concentrate on my cattle business" after he leaves the university.

U. S. Curlers Defeat Sweden

FALKIRK, Scotland (AP) — The United States defeated Sweden by 13-8 and Canada humbled Scotland 20-4 in the "Scotch Cup" curling international here Friday. Skip Fran Kleffmann from Hibbing, Minn., was the top man in the America victory. His experience was a steadying influence and made all the difference to his rink, particularly when the Swedes leveled the score halfway through the game.

In a morning session, the Americans whipped Scotland, 10-7, and Canada, the Cup holder, defeated Sweden 17-7.

Ohio State, Kentucky Meet For NCAA Regional Crown

Cincinnati Also Advances by Posting Win Over Creighton

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

They're all big now, but none may be bigger than Ohio State's match with careful Kentucky tonight in the finals of the NCAA regional tourney at Iowa City, Iowa.

The mighty Buckeyes, driving toward the NCAA title denied them in overtime by Cincinnati last season, handled Western Kentucky with ease, 93-73, in their first tourney test Friday night.

Kentucky, however, may be a different matter. The Wildcats, whose disciplined attention to coach Adolph Rupp's deliberately designed patterns brought them the No. 3 spot in the nation, romped past Butler 81-60 in the other semifinal Friday night.

Their match tonight may be the glamor game of the four regional tourneys, which also sees defending champion Cincinnati going against Colorado. Also on the night's schedule and finals in the NCAA small college tourney.

The winners advance to the semifinals at Louisville, Ky., March 23. Sacramento State and Mount St. Mary's of Maryland tangle for the NCAA small college championship at Evansville, Ind., while Prairie View A&M and Westminster, Pa., are matched for the NAIA title at Kansas City.

The victories by Ohio State, top-ranked team in the nation for the second year in a row, and Kentucky set up a replay of last year's midwest showdown, won by Ohio State 87-74. Neither had much trouble in advancing Friday night.

Ohio State used its usual fast break to turn a 27-26 deficit late in the first half to a 43-30 lead at intermission, even though Cincinnati, No. 2 in the nation, got a 24 point performance from hulking Paul Hogue in a 66-46 blasting of Creighton. Colorado swept into an 11 point halftime advantage then held off frantic Texas Tech rallies for a 67-60 victory.

In the east, Wake Forest took a 96-85 overtime triumph over St. Joseph's of Philadelphia while the Villanova overcame a 12-point deficit and went on to defeat New York University 79-76 on Hubie White's 31 point shooting.

Oregon State overcame small, determined Pepperdine 69-67 and UCLA took Utah State 73-62. The semifinals of the small college tourney were the closest of them all. Sacramento State edged Nebraska Wesleyan 74-73 in double overtime and Mount St. Mary's month. It will be not earlier than advanced with a 58-57 triumph June 18, not later than Sept. 30, over Southern Illinois. A free-throw by Jim Greene won for Sacramento State and Ed Pfeiffer's 20 foot shot at the buzzer put Mount St. Mary's in the finals.

Prairie View A&M crushed Western Illinois 80-68 and Westminster advanced with a 54-45 decision over Southeastern Oklahoma State in the NAIA round of four.

Don Fuller Tops DeNucci On Decision

BOSTON (AP)—Calm, counter-punching Don Fuller derailed Joe DeNucci's comeback and title shot aspirations Friday night with a unanimous 10-round decision at Boston Garden.

Fuller, of West Jordan, Utah, weighed 163 pounds, one less than his Newton, Mass., foe.

DeNucci, who had won six straight after returning to the ring, had hoped to beat Don and get a shot at big brother Gene Fuller, National Boxing Association middleweight champion.

Swiss Goalie Has 50 Saves, but Americans Score 12-1 Triumph

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—The United States, fighting for second place, clobbered Switzerland, 12-1, in Denver Friday night in the World Hockey Tournament with nine different players sharing in the scoring.

But undefeated Sweden, rushing into a 5-0 lead in the first 15 minutes, trounced Norway, 10-2, here to maintain its spot at the top.

Sweden now shows a 6-0 record and only needs to win its final

Pounding Norm Bass for eight runs in the first two innings, Chicago's streaking White Sox whipped the Kansas City Athletics 10-7 Friday, extending their victory string to four with their sixth triumph in seven exhibition baseball games.

Rookie Bob Farley and Floyd Robinson each drove in four runs for the White Sox at West Palm Beach. Farley banged a three-run homer in the first and picked up another RBI with a sacrifice fly while Robinson came up with a bases-loaded double and a run-scoring single.

Herb Score, trying to regain his form, opened for the Sox, gave up two runs in the first, then reared the A's the next two innings. Ray Herbert pitched three scoreless innings before Cal McLish came on and was tagged for six hits and five runs.

The National League champion Cincinnati Reds broke out of their slump with Jim O'Toole and Bill Henry spacing nine hits while Frank Robinson and Gordon Coleman provided home run support in a 5-3 win over the New York Mets at Tampa. The Reds' record is 2-5.

Wickman, Kuse, Austin Named to All-Star Team

MADISON (AP)—J. P. Fisher and Joe Steffen of champion Whitewater were picked to the All-State College Conference basketball team announced by league coaches Friday.

The only other team placing two players was runnerup Stevens Point, whose representatives are Buckley Wickman and William Kuse.

Others on the 10-member squad are: Bill Sugar of La Crosse, Bob Blizzard of Eau Claire, Dave Horton of Plattville, Fred Segelink of Stout, Dean Austin of Oshkosh and Gene Evans of Superior.

America's Top Hope Is Fifth In Skate Meet

Mrs. Pursley Has Free Skating Event To Try Comeback

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia. (AP)—America's top hope, Mrs. Barbara Roles Pursley, was in fifth place and held only an outside chance for a gold medal today going into the finals of women's division, last title up for grabs in the World Figure Skating Championships.

Mrs. Pursley, a blonde, 20-year-old mother from Arcadia, Calif., failed to come up to expectations in the compulsory school figures Friday and fell far behind the leader, Sjoukje Dijkstra of the Netherlands.

Although a superb free skater—the competition scheduled today—Mrs. Pursley, bronze medalist in the 1960 Winter Olympics, appeared to be too far back to make up the deficit in the finals.

A Czechoslovak brother and sister team, teenagers Eva and Pavel Romanov, edged out favored Canadian and French teams Friday and took the ice dance title.

Dorothyann Nelson and Peter Killen of Lake Placid, N.Y., placed sixth and Yvonne Littlefield and Peter Bets of Los Angeles were seventh.

Mrs. Pursley had 1,214.9 points after the school figures, but was expected to better her position in the free skating today.

Miss Dijkstra piled up 1,312 points compared with 1,267 for Canada's Wendy Griner, in second place.

Lorraine Hanlon, 16, of Boston, was in 10th place and Vicki Fisher, 18, of Minneapolis was 13th.

Michigan Tech Reaches Finals Of Hockey Meet

UTICA, N.Y. (AP) — Michigan Tech overcame an early 1-0 deficit, blasted St. Lawrence 6-1 Friday night and moved into the finals of the NCAA national hockey tourney.

Tech, the Western Division collegiate champion, will play Clarkson, upset winner over Michigan Thursday night, in the championship game Saturday night.

St. Lawrence opened the scoring midway through the first period when Jim McInnes converted for the Canton, N. Y. school while Michigan Tech had two men in the penalty box.

But it was all Tech the rest of the way.

Senior Don Hermanson then struck for two Husky goals, tying it late in the first period and putting Tech ahead to stay in the middle frame.

Scott Watson, Jerry Sullivan, Louis Angotti and John Ivanitz got the other Husky markers.

Fox Valley Representatives, Sheboygan South, Green Bay West Lose in Semi-Finals

MADISON (AP)—The kingpins' points against Sheboygan South of Wisconsin prep basketball — and picked up 27 in an opening Milwaukee Lincoln and Eau Claire round victory over South Milwaukee—collide tonight for the top prize in the 47th annual state high school basketball tournament. Eau Claire's Stan Johnson has 58 for two games — 33 against Green Bay West and 25 against Beloit.

Lincoln's relentless Comets will defend the state championship they won last year in an overtime. For Eau Claire the game is the first and last chance to whip the squad that made the Old Abes runnerup in Big Sixteen ratings.

Lincoln grabbed its 48th consecutive victory, downing Sheboygan South 76-63 in a semi-final clash Friday night. High scoring Eau Claire had to shake off a first half deficit to beat Green Bay West, 81-69.

West and Sheboygan vie for third place in an afternoon game that follows the consolation championship match between Beloit and South Milwaukee.

The Old Abes, riding a hefty 22-game winning streak of their own, are itching to get a crack at the high flying Comets in the championship game.

"We've been thinking about them all year—we'd like to break their streak," said Eau Claire Coach Harry Gibbs.

Best Full Game
"We're still looking for our best full game of the season," Gibbs added, "and on a given night I think we can beat any team in the state."

But Milwaukee's Lincoln likes the championship right where it is.

"We're Number One in the state and they have to beat us to disprove it," said Dick Wadewitz, Lincoln coach.

Wadewitz noted that the Old Abes will be the tallest team his Comets have faced all year. "We know we're in for a game, but our boys quite generally play up to the level of the opposition," Dayton's steady 79-71 victory over Wichita.

Against Loyola, Temple will be facing a fast-striking, high-scoring squad with a host of hot shooters.

The Ramblers from Chicago won 20 of 23 regular season games, averaging better than 91 points. Jerry Harkness, a 6-2 junior from New York is their top gun. Temple makes up in zip and jump for what it lacks in height.

The Owls, with five seniors as starters, have 6-4 1/2 Russ Gordon as their big man and 5-10 Bruce Drysdale, an exciting long-range shooter, as floor leader.

O'Hara Sets Mile Record At Cleveland
Loyola Soph Wins With 4:02.8 on 12-Lap Indoor Track

CLEVELAND (AP)—Little Tom O'Hara, big John Thomas and a handsome Finn who wasn't even invited to compete provided the thrills in the final indoor track meet of the season Friday night.

O'Hara, a 5-foot-8 sophomore from Loyola of Chicago, ran the fastest indoor mile in history on a 12-lap track (4:02.8) and broke Wes Santee's meet record of 4:04.6 in the 22nd annual Knights of Columbus meet.

Most of the 9,622 fans at the Cleveland Arena stayed to watch Thomas from Boston University try to clear 7 feet, 2 inches in the high jump. Thomas couldn't quite make it, but his 7-foot jump erased the meet standard of 6-9 1/2, set in 1953 by Ken Wiesner.

The happy Finnish star who caught the fancy of the crowd was pole vaulter Risto Anki. who cleared the bar at 15-7 1/2.

Anki hadn't done much better than 14-6 on his U.S. tour and wasn't invited to the K of C meet. Anki showed up a few hours before the meet and begged for a chance, vowing he would beat 'em all. The winning vault topped the meet mark of 15-5 inches by Don Bragg.

Then the smiling Finn, waving and throwing kisses to the fans, took three shots with the bar at 16 feet, 2 inches. He came close only on the first try.

Warriors, Pistons Count Victories in Opening NBA Playoffs

Paul Arizin Scores 43 Points to Lead Philadelphia Win

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

History won't repeat in the National Basketball Association playoffs this year. Just a year ago, the Philadelphia Warriors met the Syracuse Nationals in the semifinal round. The Warriors were heavily favored. Instead, the amazing Nats won the series in three straight. The same two teams clashed again Friday night in Philadelphia in the first game of the semifinals. This time, the Warriors whipped to a 110-103 victory to take a 1-0 lead in the best-of-five series.

In the other semifinal Friday night, also the first of a best-of-five series, the Detroit Pistons fought off the Cincinnati Royals, 123-122, in Detroit.

For a change, it wasn't Wilt Chamberlain who did most of the Philadelphia scoring. Paul Arizin, a 10-year veteran of the club, dropped in 43 points in 41 minutes to pace the Warriors.

Wilt Gets 32 Chamberlain, who has broken about every regular-season scoring record in the NBA book, chipped in with 32 points including 10 of 14 foul shots.

Arizin took 28 shots and found the range in 16, better than a .500 average. He also popped in 11 of 15 free throws and grabbed 10 rebounds.

The Warriors also held three of the Nats' usually dependable scorers — Dave Gambee, John Kerr, and Dolph Schayes—to a total of 24 points.

The Pistons fought off a desperate Cincinnati rally in the last two minutes and barely managed to hold on.

With two minutes to go, the Pistons were leading 121-111. Then 28 seconds later the Royals' ace, Oscar Robertson, fouled out, to make things even rosier for the Pistons.

But in a closing surge, Wayne Embry picked up seven points and Jack Twyman four more for the Royals. They took three consecutive times out with a second to go in hopes of setting up the winning basket. Just as the buzzer sounded, Arleon Bockhorn shot, but it was far off.

Rookie Ray Scott was high man for the Pistons with 34 points. The lead changed hands 21 times until Scott broke an 80-all tie at the 8-minute mark of the third period to send the Pistons ahead for good.

Cunningham Out From Musial Shadow

Now Must Convince Chisox Fans He's Better Than Mino

BY TED SMITH—

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Joe Cunningham isn't back of Stan Musial any more. All he has to do now is convince Chicago partisans that he is better than Minnie.

Cunningham was acquired by the White Sox from the Cardinals. He had always seemed to be backed up behind Musial, at first base as well as in the outfield. He's on his own now.

"We don't look for Joe to hit too many homers, but he is a line-drive hitter who should find Comiskey Park to his liking," says General Manager Ed Short.

"It's a good opportunity and it's up to me to take advantage of it," says Cunningham.

Cunningham is 30 and has been around, entirely in the Cardinal organization. In seven years in the big leagues he has a batting average of .304, his best season being 1959 when he hit .345 with 60 runs batted in.

Victim of Circumstances

Cunningham takes a philosophical view of the fact he was playing first base when Musial was shifted to that position, and the outfield when Musial was there.

"It wasn't a bad break," he says. "I was just the victim of circumstances."

In any event he's happy to be back at first with a club that plans to use him as a regular.

"It's so long since I played regular I'm almost scared. I feel fine. I weigh 190, which is about right. I imagine that with a schedule of 162 games I'll automatically take off weight. I never played that many before. Heck, I never even played 154 (the regular season before two clubs were added in each league). It isn't so bad now with planes. I thought '57 was a tough year when we travelled on trains."

Cunningham likes the Sox but won't compare them to the Cardinals—"the guys are all the same in baseball, all good."

Believe It or Not, Cubs' Santo Singles Into Double Play

MESA, Ariz. (AP)—A batter can single into a double play, and there are 2,404 witnesses to the fact.

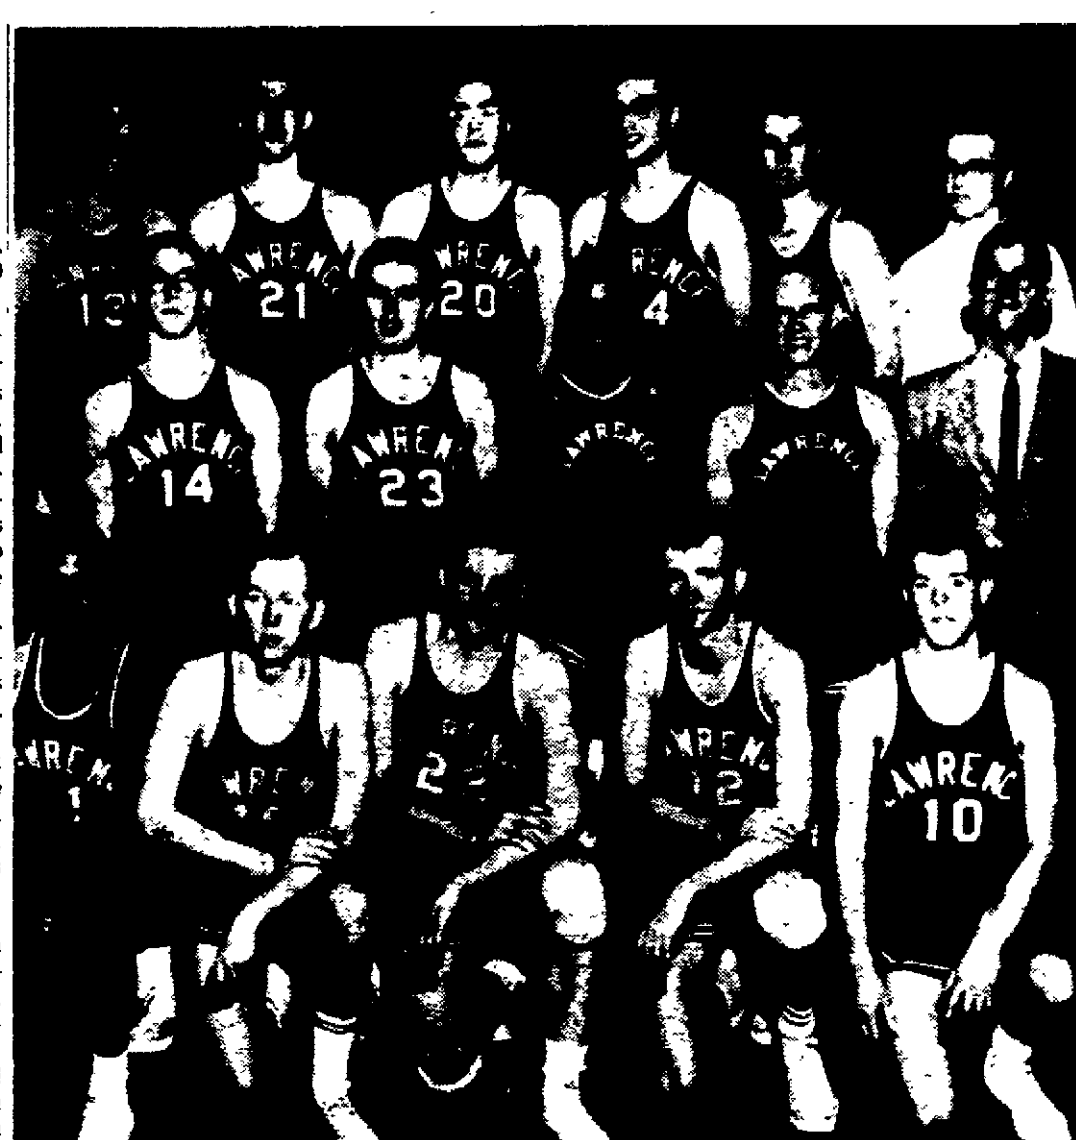

This was the size of the Rendezvous Park crowd which saw the Chicago Cubs defeat the San Francisco Giants 6-7 Friday.

With one out in the Chicago seventh, Billy Williams singled to right and moved to third as Ernie Banks dented the right field fence for a double. Ron Santo followed with a single to right and then the excitement began.

Williams scored. After making his turn at third, Banks was run down. The play went from Felipe Alou to Willie McCovey, to Ferrell Bowman to Tom Haller to Jim Davenport, who tagged Banks halfway between third base and home plate. Then Davenport threw to catcher Hall, who was covering third base, and Santo was tagged as he attempted to take third.

Arms, Legs Will be Chief Weapons Of White Sox for 1962 Campaign

Pitcher Can Come From Anywhere, Higgins Declares

BY JOHN P. CARMICHAEL

SARASOTA, Fla. — Just about a year ago the Boston Red Sox shipped a young pitcher named Don Schwall to Seattle for further seasoning. After he had won three straight games in the Pacific Coast League, the Red Sox, who could use any kind of hurling, recalled the 6-6 righthander and installed him on their shrimpy staff.

Schwall won 15 games, lost seven and was voted American League rookie of the year.

This happy circumstance prompted Mike Higgins, the Boston manager, to reiterate his oft-spoken belief. "It takes longer for an infielder or an outfielder or even a hitter to develop... but a pitcher can come overnight from anywhere."

Twenty-five years ago, Sid Hudson came out of a Class-D league and became a major-league winner for Washington.

Tailored for Them

More recently Steve Barber, the Baltimore southpaw and Roland Sheldon of the Yanks, walked right in and took over starting jobs as though they'd been tailored for them.

So it is no wonder that each year at this time a manager's fancies turn to thoughts of some unheralded pitcher giving him Mino and Roy Sievers for more something around which to weave finesse on the mound and behind it.

That's what Al Lopez, the White Sox manager, hopes to find among Joel Horlen, Dom Zanni, Eddie Fisher, Scott Segar and others of his present multiple - defensive staff.

That's why, in this era of unprecedented power, Al consented to trading away men like Minnie

Nebraska To Pay $17,000 To New Coach

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — University of Nebraska regents formally confirmed Friday the appointment of Robert S. Devaney as head football coach at $17,000 a year, highest salary ever paid a head coach at Nebraska.

His predecessor, Bill Jennings, now an assistant at Kansas, received $14,000.

Regents hired the former Wyoming coach on a five-year basis but on terms of appointment rather than contract. The appointment was effective last Feb. 1.

Tippy Dye, Nebraska's new athletic director hired away from Wichita, Kan. University, receives $18,500 a year, also a new high for a Husker athletic director.

The board also made official the employment of Devaney's assistants on one-year appointments.

Assistant coaches Michael H. Corgan, James Ross and Carl F. Selmer Jr. will receive $10,000 each annually. John W. Melton, $9,000 and Cletus Fischer and George L. Kelly, $6,700 each.

Sure Signs of Spring Include the appearance of jaunty new hat styles for the men of the house, and renewed interest in the upcoming Spring elections. The two interests fuse at the moment at Jimos Hat Cleaners, 217 E. College avenue, where the newest Spring styles are now on display, and the owner Andy Jimos, is now getting ready to run for his third term as Outagamie County supervisor from Appleton's second ward.

Jimos Hat Cleaners is now thoroughly settled into its new east College avenue quarters after moving last fall from its old location west of the Appleton State Bank.

Featuring custom-made hats as well as cleaning, reworking and rebuilding hats to today's fashions, the Jimos firm can make old hats look new again using a secret process originated by the shop.

The new look for this Spring according to the shop is narrow and even narrower brims and new crown dent details. Old hats can be made to conform by narrowing the brim, re-shaping the crown and installing a new ribbon, Jimos says.

1962 is Jimos' 46th year in business.

Zenith Announces National Newspaper Ad Campaign On Color T.V.

Zenith Sales Corporation, number one corporate salesman of black-and-white TV sets, has selected the Appleton Post-Crescent to play an important role in a powerful national newspaper advertising campaign to promote the company's color television receivers.

Kick-off advertisement in the March-April campaign appeared in the March 6 issue of the Appleton Post-Crescent.

L. C. Truesdell, Zenith Sales Corporation president, announced there will be national advertising insertions in approximately 228 newspapers throughout the U. S. during the campaign. "The ad program," he said, "is designed to blanket the nation with millions and millions of local reader impressions, and to provide a power house of support for Zenith's color."

Sixteen years of Zenith research and development work in color broadcasting and receiving equipment. Truesdell said, preceded the company's entry last August into the color TV business.

Zenith began organized work on color in 1940, and after diversion from the project during World War II, resumed the program in 1945. In 1949, company engineers produced sets for use in demonstrating surgical operations in full color over closed circuit TV to a national convention of the American Medical Association.

Using results gained from its color research, Zenith contributed to the development of the NTSC color TV system which was authorized by the Federal Communications Commission on December 17, 1953, as national broadcasting standards for station use.

In 1954 Zenith successfully demonstrated a color receiver to the firm's distributors, but declined to enter the market at that time because "we felt color television

Winters Firm Sends Open Letter to Its Customers

This is an open letter from a normal and this one of Appleton's businessmen condition results in more equipment which we received today. It is a letter from the office of August Winters and Sons, 1216 W. Wisconsin Ave. and is addressed to employees for not getting discouraged and giving up even when the problems pile up and the phones never stop ringing and the boss gets crabby.

We did handle approximately 1200 emergency calls in this short period. The emergency calls are in addition to the regular installation work commitments.

Those of you that were missed, please forgive us. We are continually trying to improve our methods to cope with the fall and winter rush.

The number of training apprentices for this important work are restricted. With our present day conveniences we need more and better trained service mechanics.

You, the public, can also help. When we send a journeyman mechanic on the job to do a service for you, don't tell the mechanic to send the apprentice back to the shop because you feel one man can do the job almost as fast as two men.

The only way we can train and develop good future service mechanics is by the experience gained working on the job with the tools. (Some things can not be learned in books.) And bear in mind the apprentice not only has on the job training, but he also attends school during the entire five year apprenticeship training program. His employer pays him wages while he learns the trade, as well as wages paid the days he attends school.

The earnings of an apprentice are good, as they must be, to attract qualified people to this important occupation. This apprenticeship program applies to steamfitting, plumbers, sheet metal mechanics, as well as furniture service mechanics.

A second way you can help is by permitting us to go over your heating equipment in March, April and May, so the work can be done before the fall rush. Thanks again for your patience.

He has been a resident of the second ward of Appleton constantly for the past 33 years.

Post Publishing Co. Violated NLRB Act, Board Indicates

Three-Member Panel Supports Findings of Hearing Examiner

The National Labor Relations Board today announced agreement with the findings of its examiner that the Post Publishing Co., publisher of the Appleton Post-Crescent, was in violation of the National Labor Relations Act in certain labor practices.

A three-man panel agreed with Examiner Eugene Frey that the company acted unlawfully in recognizing the independent Post-Crescent Craftsman's Union and by offering or contributing financial and material assistance to the local union.

The company denied offering assistance to the union.

Charges Dropped
Charges that the company gave preferential treatment to union members regarding employment security, life insurance benefits and pay were dropped.

V. I. Minahan, president of the company and editor of the Post-Crescent is out of the city and unable to comment on the board's decision.

Charges of unfair labor practices were brought against the company by the NLRB after a complaint was filed by the International Typographical Union.

The ITU is trying to organize the company's mechanical department employees, who are members of the independent Craftsman's Union.

Frey's intermediate report, declaring the company guilty, was delivered Nov. 29, 1961. The company has appealed.

Consolidated Sales Down

Company's Report To Stockholders Mailed Friday

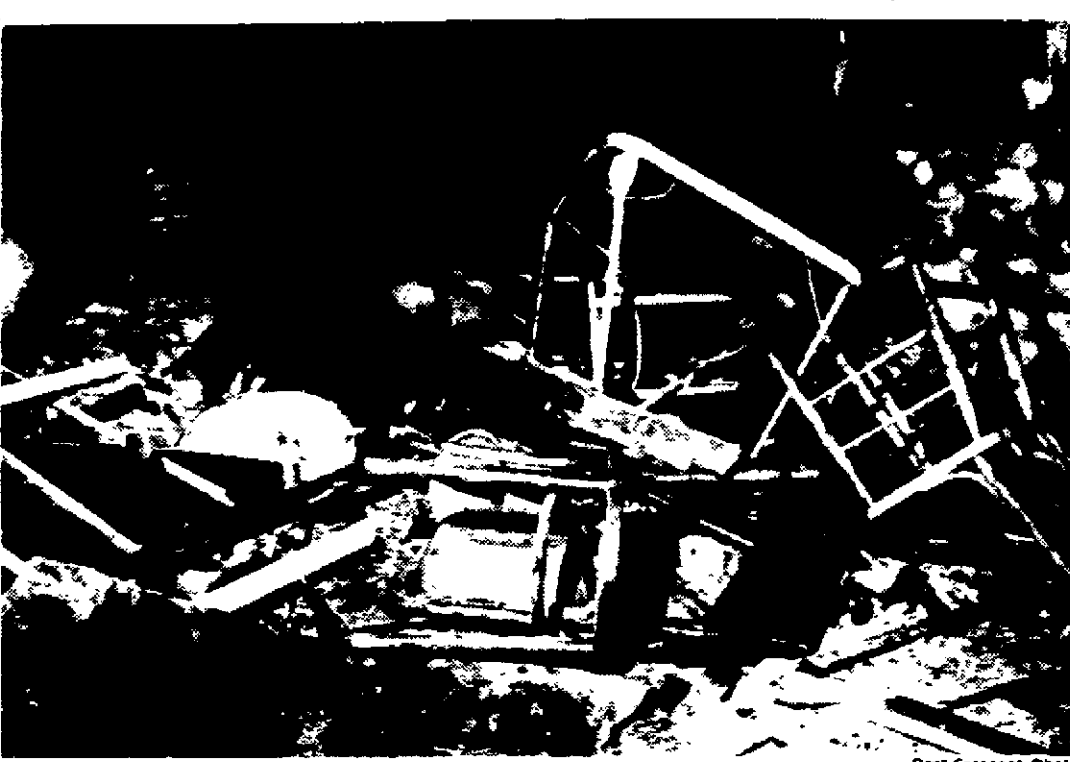

Consolidated Water Power and Paper Co. of Wisconsin Rapids sales for 1961 were $83,663,833, somewhat below the $88,780,431 record level set in 1960. The firm's annual report to stockholders mailed Friday shows.

The Interlake Mill 1130 E. John St. is a division of Consolidated Water.

Earnings for the year were $6,581,225, a decline from the all-time record of $7,856,704 set last year. Per share earnings were $2.57, compared with $3.08 in 1960.

Sales Off
According to the report sales volume declined early in the year and was followed by lower mill operating rates and a reduction in prices for some grades, bringing about the reduction in earnings.

Other adverse factors, the report stated, were additional depreciation of equipment not in production until late in the year, start-up expenses of new facilities and increase in labor and maintenance costs.

Firemen Found the Body of 66-year-old Paul Eichmann, near the foot of the bed in a lower Main Street rooming house in Oshkosh after they battled a blaze about 9 p.m. Friday. Eichmann, a roomer, died of suffocation. An Oshkosh fireman, Jerry Heintz, was overcome with smoke in fighting the fire.

3,127 Enroll In Colleges' Extensions

State Schools Report Heavy Attendance For College Credit

This spring 3,127 persons are attending college credit extension classes being offered by eight of the Wisconsin State Colleges.

Of those enrolled in the various courses being offered either in cities and communities throughout the state or on the college campuses, 2,630 are women and 497 are men. And most persons enrolled are, as usual, regular year-teachers.

Seventy-eight courses are being offered off-campus this spring, and these have enrolled 1,907 men and women.

Saturday Classes
The Wisconsin State Colleges also are conducting classes on Saturday and on evenings during the week on their own campuses. The 51 Saturday classes being offered this spring have enrolled 1,045 students, while another 177 are attending the 11 courses of ferred on week nights. The extension program is completely self-supporting. Those who participate pay the entire cost of their instruction and, if the class is being offered off-campus, the travel expenses of the teacher as well.

Average enrollment in an extension class this spring is 22, while the range is from eight to 46 students.

Courses being offered this spring cover a wide range, from the modern short story to the history of western civilization to music for elementary teachers or the geography of Asia.

Oshkosh Largest
As usual, Wisconsin State College at Oshkosh has the heaviest extension enrollment, with 946 students, while Wisconsin State College at Stevens Point is serving 648 students in the central part of the state.

Other college enrollments include: Eau Claire, 382; La Crosse, 152; Platteville, 276; River Falls, 122; Superior, 154, and Whitewater, 467.

Stout State College is not offering extension work during the spring semester.

To Your Good Health

Medication Alone Not Successful for Sinus

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D.

A young woman writes that she is having a miserable time with sinus trouble — allergic sinusitis. She has been pinned down to four severe allergies — house dust, cats, ragweed and June grass.

She has tried just about every remedy in the book, but since having a lingering cold a few months ago she has had scant relief from any of the medications.

What, she asks desperately, can she do?

We'll omit some of the other causes of sinus misery and stick to hers — which is not an uncommon type.

First, the sinus membrane can react just as the nose does to an acute infection such as the hard cold it becomes boggy congested, inflamed, with a mucous discharge. With the sinus involved, the result is pain.

Add the stubborn cold and its aftermath to the irritation of the allergies, and you have the misery compounded. The inflammation leaves the membranes only that much more vulnerable to new colds or to other transient germs.

Allergic Factors

The answer is to attack the problem piecemeal. The victim of moderate hay fever, either by vacationing in a pollen-free area or by moderate use of antihistamine drugs, often gets past the season without too much discomfort after which the affected membranes return to normal.

But in a case like today's, it isn't that easy. You cannot expect medication alone to be successful.

At least, however, knowing the allergic factors is half the battle. Cats can be avoided. The other problems are not so easy — house dust, ragweed and June grass.

The best solution, I believe is to resort to desensitization treatments, and on a year-round basis since, in any event house dust is not seasonal. As for the pollens, gradual, persistent desensitization is going to be more effective than attempts to desensitize "just for the season."

As the hay fever and allergy symptoms are gradually controlled or at any rate limited, the sinus tissues will be better able to withstand the onslaught of germs.

Yes, it will take time and patience, and periodic renewal of desensitization shots may be required for a long, long time although the intervals may well increase.

But the vicious cycle of allergies and colds teaming up to make the sinus distress unbearable can be broken, and you can get to a point at which the occasional bad spells can be relieved with temporary medication.

Do not, however, deceive yourself with hopes that pills or sprays can bring satisfactory relief all by themselves in such a severe case.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a girl of five who has quite a lot of hair on her arms and legs. Can anything be done for this? I'm afraid if it keeps on she will have a terrific amount. — Mrs. H. P.

It's probably a family characteristic and is more noticeable, of course, if the child is a brunette. If there is no premature appearance of hair on her face and trunk, I would doubt that a glandular problem is involved. A session with your doctor should settle that question readily.

TO J. V.: Next to milk (and cheese) some of the leafy green vegetables are the richest in calcium — turnip greens, mustard greens and collards top the list. Broccoli, cauliflower, chard, beet of Mr. and Mrs. Rayburn Kaufmans and spinach are farther man, 708 N. Fire Destroys Interior of Service Station

TIGERTON — Fire destroyed the interior of the Ralph Schroeder service station here Friday night, causing an estimated $2,600 damage.

The fire started about 8:30 when Martin Steinke, 17, was draining the gas tank of his 1955 car. Police said he had his car on a hoist and apparently a defective light cord ignited the gasoline.

Fire chief Ervin Hille said Tigerton firemen were at the scene about three hours. The station interior was completely burned and the auto was a total wreck.

Stinke was alone in the station at the time of the fire. He had a minor head injury, but did not require hospitalization.

Guard Your Child Against Rheumatic Fever Infection

The most widespread crippling illness affecting Wisconsin children is an invisible culprit — rheumatic fever, which often leads to rheumatic heart disease.

Parents should be alerted for signs of streptococcal infection, forerunner of rheumatic fever, the Wisconsin Heart Association says. Special caution should be exercised during the present damp months of March and April.

The Heart Association offered the following advice:

Preventing streptococcal infection, wherever possible, and ridding the child of it as quickly as possible, will go far toward cutting the rheumatic fever toll.

Sore Throat
A common sign of streptococcal infection is a sore throat — but not every sore throat is a "strep" infection. Also, not every strep infection is accompanied by a sore throat.

If your child gets a sore throat and has any of the signs or symptoms listed below, phone your doctor right away. Don't wait! Be prepared to give him the answers to these questions.

1. Did the sore throat come on suddenly?
2. Does your youngster complain that his throat hurts most when he swallows?
3. Does it hurt him under the angle of his jaw when you press gently with your fingers? Are the glands in his neck swollen?

4. Does he have a fever? How much? (Usually a strep infection brings on a fever between 101 and 104 degrees.)

5. Is he nauseated? Has he vomited?

6. Does your child complain of headache?

7. Has he been in contact with anyone who has had scarlet fever or a sore throat? Any child who has been exposed to scarlet fever should see his doctor for preventive treatment even if he does not have a sore throat.

Your youngster isn't likely to have all these symptoms and only your doctor can tell if your child has a strep infection.

Reorganization, Paper Forced Resignation Of School Chief

Seymour Press Editor Had Been Constant Critic of L. D. Culver

SEYMOUR — School reorganization and a dispute with the editor of the local newspaper the school is rated among the main causes for the resignation of the superintendent of schools here.

L. D. Culver, who announced his resignation Thursday after serving as superintendent of schools in Seymour since 1955, said Friday that he gave the board no official reason for tendering his resignation but said that a decision to separate the local grade school from the high school office and editorials by Kieth VanVuren, editor of the Seymour Press, contributed to his decision.

Editorial Subject
Culver, who has been the subject of frequent editorials by Van Vuren over the past three years, has been employed by both the Seymour Elementary District and the Seymour Union High School. The grade district had been paying 25 per cent of his salary and the high school 75 per cent.

At its annual meeting last July, the elementary district voted to detach itself from the high school and dispense with the services of the superintendent along with the services of the school engineer, instrumental music and art instructors who also were paid partly by the grade system.

The decision not to continue paying the costs for the offices for the 1962-63 school year was announced by the elementary board a month ago.

Backed Integration
Culver long has been a promoter of integrating the grade and high school districts into a single unit operating kindergarten through the 12th grade claiming that it would mean a savings of over $250,000 to the taxpayers because of increased state aids.

The merger would involve the high school, the city grade school system and 18 rural districts now served by the high school.

The plan was defeated at a hearing conducted by the joint school committees of Brown and Outagamie counties before the annual meeting. Ironically, most of the opposition came from the rural schools.

In a lengthy editorial on Feb. 8, Van Vuren charged that the defeat of integration was "a vote more against the superintendent of schools and his handling of the entire matter than against integration itself."

More Charges
He also charged in the paper that Culver was responsible for the disharmony at the school and that the people of the district were "jolted hard" when they received their tax bills.

Culver has charged that Van Vuren misunderstands the integration issue and has insisted that the school is rated among the best in the state for its curriculum, the number of students who advance to college and the number of qualified instructors who have remained on the staff.

He is given support by Anthony Weyers, school board clerk. Weyers pointed out that the entire school board agreed to accept the resignation "with regrets" Thursday night.

Two Killed in Brown County
In One Hour

Brown County recorded its second and third traffic fatalities of 1962 in less than an hour Friday afternoon in a Preble pedestrian accident and a car train crash in Hobart.

The fatalities were: Kenneth Delfosse, 5, Preble, who was killed when he was struck by a car while dashing across the street in front of his home about 4:45 p.m.

George Radey, 57, Howard, who was killed when his car was struck by a train at the Green Bay and Western Lines crossing through the 12th grade claiming that it would mean a savings of over $250,000 to the taxpayers because of increased state aids.

The merger would involve the high school, the city grade school system and 18 rural districts now served by the high school.

The plan was defeated at a hearing conducted by the joint school committees of Brown and Outagamie counties before the annual meeting. Ironically, most of the opposition came from the rural schools.

In a lengthy editorial on Feb. 8, Van Vuren charged that the defeat of integration was "a vote more against the superintendent of schools and his handling of the entire matter than against integration itself."

Wanted to Change
The Preble boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Delfosse, was struck by a car driven by David Van Calster, 16, Preble. Van Calster told county police he was driving about 25 miles an hour when the boy ran out from a driveway. He said he swerved to the left but could not avoid hitting the boy.

Paul Bettine, 7, a playmate, said he and the Delfosse boy were playing together in the driveway when young Delfosse decided to run across the street to his home to change his clothes. The police report said the high snow bank reduced visibility at the driveway.

Radey was struck by a train of which George Saboda, Green Bay, was the engineer.

Dragged 80 Feet

The speed of the train was reported at about 25 miles an hour when the Radey car drove onto the track. The engine's brakes were applied before the crash. The engine hit the front of the car and dragged it for about 80 feet. Radey's 1950 sedan was demolished.

Karen Butterfuss, 14, Beloit, was injured fatally when struck by a car as she and a young sister crossed the street near their home after attending a movie.

Canadian Expert Debunks Theory Russian Fishing Ships Really Are After Fish

BY FRANK FLAHERTY
Chicago Daily News Service

OTTAWA, Ontario — A Canadian fisheries expert is back from Russia with a report which tends to debunk a widely held theory among East Coast fishermen. That is the notion that big Russian fishing ships seen in the Atlantic are not interested in catching fish but in spying. The theory stemmed from the facts that the Russians are standoffish, decline to receive visitors on board modern fishing port in the world. Their ships and sometimes appear to be fishing in unlikely places, live training system for fisheries. J. L. The total Russian catch of ocean fish has gone up from 500,000 tons in 1922 to 3,500,000 tons. The industry, operating under a central board, has a target of 4,500,000 tons for 1963. Judging by the scientific skills and resources being applied, Kask has no doubt the target will be met.
